Dear Peter brown,

I have just had a letter from Robin Hallett, in which he mentions having sent you a review of Leivveld's book, and offering to review a recent book by Hanlon. He told me this because I had in the meantime asked him to review the Hanlon for Social Dynamics, our Centre for African Studies journal. He says he does not mind where his review of Hanlon appears. May I please ask, if you do not mind, that Robin do the Hanlon review for our journal, for we were sent a review copy by the publisher? Unless I hear to the contrary, I shall take it that you do not mind... to save you the bother of replying.

Best wishes with Reality, which is always worth reading, and whose editorials I always admire very much.

Kind regards,
