Dear Bill,

I hope you didn't post that letter on the day it was dated because, if you did, it has taken me a hell of a long time to reply to it.

I have no objection to your raising the bond you are looking for on the house, so please go ahead.

You may not recognise it but that black cow which arrived at Snowflake today is yours. I haven't got the piece of paper which says how much it cost with me but I think there is a fair chance that, by the time the two old ones have been sold, you will show a profit. I just hope it produces some milk when it calves, which I don't think will be before about August.

We keep hoping to get to Snowflake for a few days but it never seems to happen.

Regards,
