Dear Denis,

I thought I should write to you in case you were wondering what had happened to my threat to come with Douglas Irvine to discuss with you a few thoughts about the future.

Don't worry, I haven't forgotten! After talking to Douglas again, however, we both felt we should do more thinking ourselves, and talk to a few other people, before coming to see you. So that is what our present plan is.

When we feel ready to talk I will phone and find out if and when it will suit you to do so.

Regards,

Allen Irvine
