Dear Jill,

Here it is for what it's worth -- which I suspect is not much.

I am put off by ideology and don't really know or care enough about the details of Marist arguments, or about its offshoots, to be able to argue very successfully about them. So, if you decide to throw this away, or to add on or put in anything extra, you must do so.

I have not mentioned Kader Hassim by name because it seemed a bit unfair to do so when he was out of circulation, but if you think he should be mentioned, substitute him for APDUSA somewhere. Nor did I, as you will see, say anything about the UDF or Inkatha. This is for reasons of cowardice. Largely, I think, as a response to AFRA's activities in Northern Natal, Inkatha has started to get involved in the anti-removal scene there, and we are doing a bit of an egg-dance, trying to stay friends with both them and the UDF.

Love,

H. K. I.
