Dear Mr. Collins,

I am very sorry I have not replied before to your letter of October 27th. 1967.

A certain Dr. Blaxall who has been living in Zambia is soon returning to England, and I have asked him whether he would accept a small paid job from me and collect for me the pre-South African material which would be needed for a book about Bishop Clayton. I do not think it likely that Jonathan Cape would be interested in a book about Bishop Clayton, but I think I would feel obliged to show it first to the Oxford University Press, and if they decide against it then I would certainly consider your offer.

Yours sincerely,

Alan Paton.
