8th September, 1970.

My dear Alan,

I was delighted to have your letter of September 1st, and to know that the Clayton biography was going ahead. That is splendid news. You can count on me to answer all the questions you have put, and I shall be delighted to do so; but at the moment I have just returned from holiday and a pile of correspondence is awaiting me which I must clear up. I promise you I will deal with the letter as soon as possible.

Lady Howick lives at Howick, Alnwick, Northumberland - in case you want to write to her before you get my reply.

Incidentally, Geoffrey Clayton died before I was elected Bishop of Masasi.

I saw you in that TV interview some months ago, and that was very tantalizing, because there were so many things I would have liked to talk to you about. However, perhaps one day it may be possible.

With love and prayers,

Yours ever,

Trevor C.R.
