The Most Rev. Robert Selby Taylor,
Archbishop of Cape Town,
Bishopscourt,
Claremont,
C.P.

My dear Archbishop,

The life of Geoffrey Clayton is now finished. I have had several readers, and the last three will be Roy Cowdry, Bishop Inman, and my son Jonethan. Trevor Huddleston will also be a reader, but it is very hard to hold discussions with someone who is 6000 miles away. I have not asked you to read the book, because of the great pressures on your time, but if it is your desire to do so, then I shall send you a copy of the typescript. Perhaps after you have read it I could come and spend a day or two with you to discuss it.

Yours with respect,

Alan Paton
