Dear Mr Paton,

Professor Italiaander of the Freie Akademie der Kunst in Hamburg, writes that 'I am an old friend of Alan Paton. As secretary general of the Academy of Arts in Hamburg I could give him the plaque of our Academy. He is a Honorary Member of our Academy, too. I like to do everything I can for his books .... I would like to publish a few pages out of the book in translation. Would you please give me the right to do that, but as an Academy we cannot pay an honorarium. I am sure that Alan Paton would be very happy if that note and that excerpt will be published in our Year Book, and therefore I hope that you will give me the permission. Please send me as soon as possible a press copy of that book. I do not know yet which chapter we shall translate, perhaps five or six pages out of "Champion of the Boiceless".'

I have replied as attached, and hope it is all right with you.

Yours sincerely,
Clare Brown
