Dear Leo,

I am airmailing to you this afternoon two copies of Chapter III, and two of Chapter IV - one for you and one for Scribner.

1. With regard to Chapter ~~III~~^{XXVI}, which we thought would have to be retyped, we found wholesale typing was unnecessary. You will note some of your pages are not the same colour as Scribner's, but rest assured the two chapters are identical.
2. Please take Chapter III and discard page 12, beginning "more forthright" and ending £6,000,000, and substitute for it the first pink page beginning "more forthright" and ending "but he too" and the second pink page (not a full page), beginning "thoroughly disapproved" and ending "surplus of over £6,000,000". Please do the same for Scribner's copy.
3. Take Chapter XII and discard page 4 beginning "for the first month" and ending "~~xxxxxxxxxxxx~~" "he had mastered it", and substitute for it two pink pages, the first beginning "for the first month" and ending "and responsible" and the second pink page (incomplete) beginning "was the truest" and ending "he had mastered it".
4. Chapter XL, page 19 beginning "appointment of a National Deputy Leader", after the end of first complete paragraph the closing lines must read "addressed primarily to the boys, on man's duty and privilege to serve his community and his neighbours".
5. As I told you, I am reading through the entire MS again and shall send you a complete list of very minor corrections. One of these however is so important that it should be made at once. Chapter XIV, page 6, beginning "is already a man towards whom" second full paragraph in the last line, change "a" to "no".

Love to you both.

In great haste,
