तेरा हृदय हाथ में सम्मुख है खूबसा मधु का प्याला, किसको दे परवाह कहीं या कल का है दोनेवाला । इस सलौनेपन, मोदकता का अदभुत संयोग हुआ, रचा गया यह स्वर्ग घरा पर तेरे कारण मधुनाला ॥

Sukhthi

Your hands are in mine and the cup full of wine stands just in front.
Who worries as to what happens tomorrow. What a sweet concord of beauty, grace and intoxication! O bella, it's only for your sake that heaven itself has come down on earth.

That fits your theology eh?

Fern & I are sitting on the roof, the sun has taken its fierceness away & a cool breeze refreshes us - we spent our day at the zoo with some other folks - though I'm sure some people here felt we should be behind cages - several of the enclosures for gorillas, tigers etc had marble stones in front of them with such sayings as

- A frightening prospect I'd say!
Also part of the day was spent, not unlike the gorilla couple we saw, slaving (or finding) for lice in Fern's hair! Now before you say 'Yok' - let me point out she didn't get them from me! Actually she's been working at the Mother Teresa home here & apparently the kids there have quite

Your cup offers wine, and my fruit is also juicy. My life becomes meaningful, as and when, you, yourself fill the cup I drink. Both of us are the custodians of this life on earth; I am deep within myself, depending entirely upon you as my only refuge.

I hope you all got the Born Tough sign through Robin - and the other letters we've sent - Thanks again for your wild one!

What's George doing? Tell him after home love um

And how about school? Do the SRC activities... on "social programmes" and has the row over teachers etc been settled.

What decorates your room these days? Trevor Robin's a bit small for you now I bet..... Robert Redfunt à la Rebecca?..... or, hopefully Nelson! Now there's a real hero..... an poster of him is still on the high seas — and not due here until March now. Luckily we don't even have canned spaghetti + peas — cause it'd be hard put to open them —

Have you all planned your trip here yet? Talk to Beergs + join them! (Shei Chocklingam will cover any incidental expenses — plane fares etc!)

Much love to you
