

Hi,

I write these words on paper kindly stolen from my wife. She is well, having just written an examination - English; History II; Education and Communication - the last mentioned in the hope of improving home life and general social intercourse. (You have a ~~not~~ dirty mind, don't you!).

Your last letter, dated 3/11/82 was indeed a bit laudatorial in content, though not in presentation or should I say delivery.

Christmas is round the corner. A time for merry making for many but not for the millions of poor souls. When is all this going to end? The end is nigh! There's plenty of the last mentioned around but still, the more of that, the more poor souls are born. Perhaps you people have some ideas.

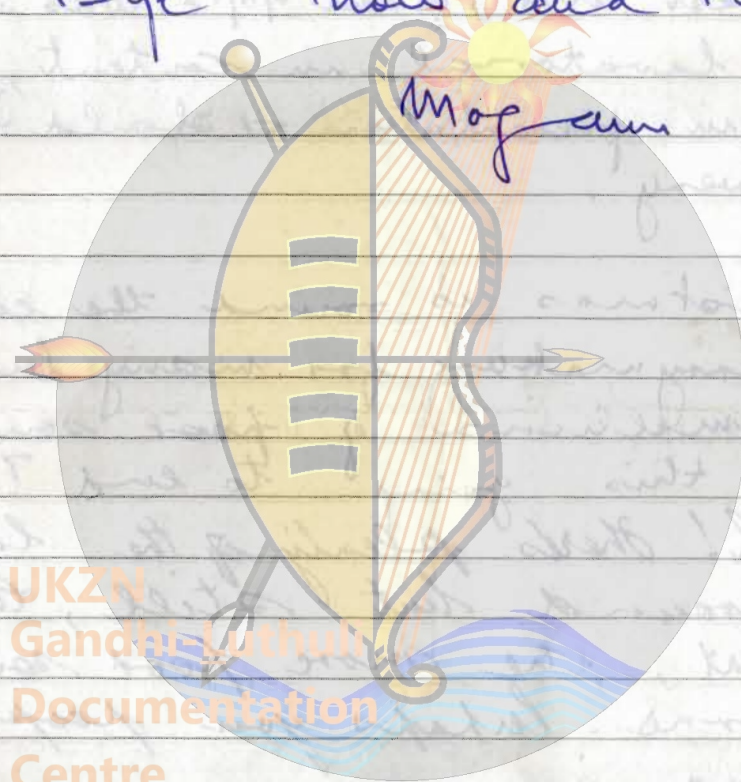

Griffith's Memorial Service was on and some speeches were heard. Will somebody ~~be~~ bless that man's soul. What did he die for? We know what he died of. Someday, the truth will out! I saw a good film once - "Judgment at Nuremberg." If it ever does a circuit again, why, I shall see it again and perhaps make believe that I saw the prosecutor. Fantastic indulgence, you might say.

I wrote in my office. A client to see me - says reception. Maybe a fair size estate or maybe someone for a C.O.

Bye now and regards.

Phyllis, 82, 11. 16.

The foregoing style of writing the date was not vogue at the time that this letter head was widely in use. This specimen appeared amongst a whole lot of other waste material which has now been cleared.

~~total~~ With that preamble (WHEREAS) I now salute thee, my dearest thought of one! Complaints: Mised is no more with me. Eight years did I live with that lass. Left - in consequence non-consummation "babe adds life!" She is now with Cape. Better screw, better every thing.

Too many lawyers in this town - hence no work.

"Stop jumbling!" did you say? Okay

Your last letter - which ^(flush) appeared to be a flash in the pan - made shitty reading. The slut said to the case: "Please help me I'm falling."

To which came the prompt reply: "You'll have to go."

Passport awaited. "Deceaseds" brother to approach issues.

Will keep posted.
