My dear Morgan

It was lovely talking to you last night - You cannot imagine the joy of hearing someone from home to us exiles.

What a change from Lesotho to Swaziland. It feels like I am back in Berman Brook, sitting picknicking with my children. It is such a line of activity - its not true. Besides the holiday fun & lot sort much activity here - more employment avenues - People have much greater confidence - service in the shops is more efficient - You dont have to stand for hours for attention. The banks have been attention & it is pleasing to see children in better health here. I do feel something is being done - even if its slow -

I look forward to the surprise like a baby impatient for his bottle. So happy for your freedom - sure the family must love it.

Stay well

Love

Paul
