5. ORGANISE, ORGANISE, ORGANISE... (continued)

- This part of the series deals with Security of the underground unit. By security is meant all the precautionary measures the unit takes to protect itself from the enemy and safeguard its secrets, its members, its plans and its intentions. Security rules must be observed by all members of the unit and they include the following:-
- (i) ensuring that members of the unit are at all times safe and secure.
  - (ii) seeing to it that the enemy does not infiltrate the unit.
  - (iii) screening of those to be recruited.
  - (iv) underground cadres must be alert and vigilant all the time.
  - (v) finding out how much the enemy knows about the existence and activities of the unit, making wide use of enemy radio, press, agents and informers.
  - (vi) finding out about how the enemy security is organised, his structure, and plans.
  - (vii) every member of the unit must be called by a false name or pseudonym.
  - (viii) all documents of maps, objects addresses, schemes must be coded.
  - (ix) each scheme, task or operation must be known only to those few involved in it.
  - (x) documents and other material must be hidden away from the house and at various points or hiding places. Avoid hiding material together in one hiding place.
  - (xi) when moving material from one place to another, make sure that they are not carried 'openly' from one place to another, i.e. they are camouflaged or properly hidden so as not to attract undue attention or be easily found if you are searched.

(xii) the unit must have a plan for emergencies, i.e. for when the enemy acts against the unit. The following are some of the measures taken during such emergency: put into action the unit's emergency plan by dispersing to hideouts or hiding places that have been prepared long before time (e.g. moving from P.E. to JO'burg). Hideouts must be used for short periods then changed. Those arrested and detained, as a rule, must hold out for at least 24 hours to give time for manoeuvre for the untouched comrades of the unit. The remaining members in the unit must not regroup immediately. During hiding the unit must use new documents, new passes, new names and addresses. Legends i.e. a satisfactory story explaining why you are at any particular place, at that particular time must be prepared beforehand. The legend will be stronger if you have some documents to back you up. During the crisis you must be highly mobile and use fast transport. If an underground shadow-leadership has been prepared, it must be brought into action to continue the activities of the unit in the area. When the coast is clear, signals are made to regroup the unit and restore the underground machinery....
