

Dossier of deaths in detention since 1976

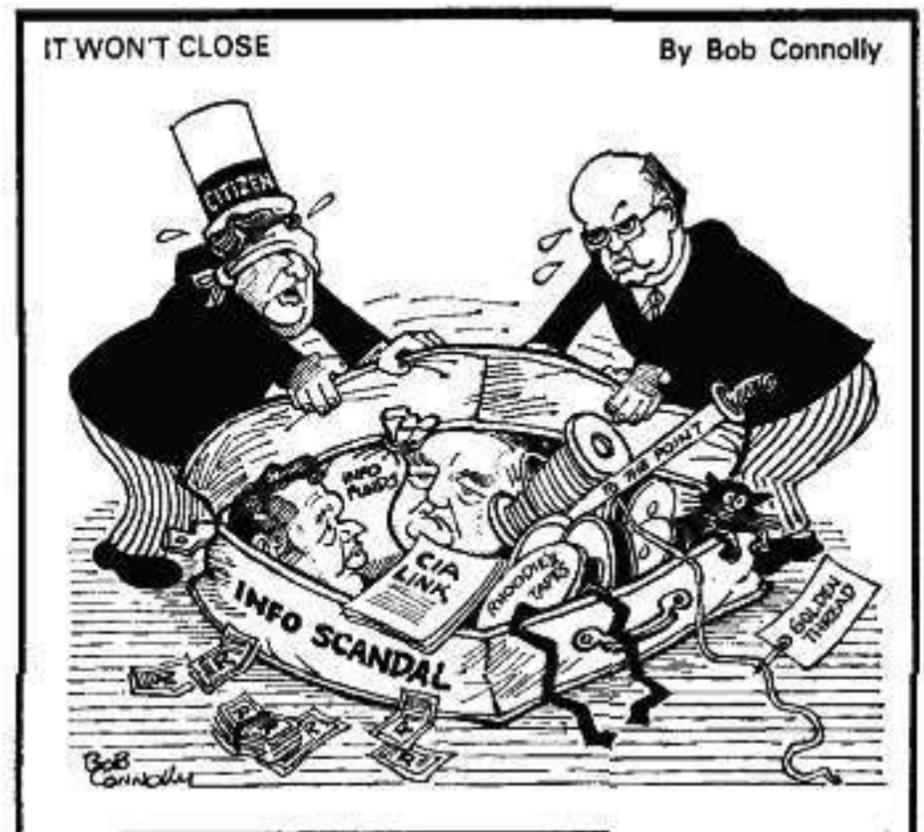

JOSEPH MDLULI
 MAPETLA MOHAPI
 LUKE MAZWEMBE
 DUMISANI MBATHA
 CALEB MAYEKISO
 EDWARD MZOLO
 WILLIAM NAMODI TSHWANE
 ERNEST MAMASILA
 WELLINGTON MLUNGISI TSHAZIBANE
 BEORGE BOTHA
 DR NANAOTH NTSHUNTSHA
 LAWRENCE NDZANGA
 THELO MOSALA
 ELMON MALELE
 MATTHEWS MABELANE
 TSWAFIFENE JOYI
 SAMUEL MALINGA
 AARON KHOZA
 PHAKAMILE MABIJA
 ELIJAH LOZA
 HOOSEN HAFJEJEE
 BAYEMPIN MZIZI
 STEVE BIKO
 BONAVENTURE MALAZA
 LUNGILE TABALAZA
 JACOB MASHABANE
 FENUAL MOGATUSI

(Continued from page 18)

paying them fair wages and allowing them reasonable working hours.

Secondly, we need to look at our servants afresh, and encourage other people to do so. In his great novel 'Anna Karenina', Tolstoy describes the lady of the house going down to the river to bathe one spring. She meets a group of peasant women gathering herbs and talks to them. She is amazed to find that they are women with feelings very like her own. Many white South African employers need to make this discovery.

We need to look at our servants afresh, free from all the stereotyped views, and recognise them as women with needs and feelings that are not very different from our own. I would like to see the Black Sash take the lead in bringing about this change in consciousness in our own and our neighbour's perception of their servants. It is a course which will not bring us any popularity but it is a course that deserves our time, our thoughts and our voices.

STUDY GROUP ON INTERNAL RELATIONS

(Continued from page 15)

"South Africa has come dangerously close to the situation where government actions have lost track of the sense of justice generally entertained by a substantial portion of the South African population and where the need to honour the juridical and political institutions of the country seems no longer to be inspired by a genuine feeling of what is right."
 (J. D. van der Vyver)

"In a government of laws existence of the government will be imperilled if it fails to observe the law scrupulously... If the government becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it invites anarchy."
 (Mr Justice Brandeis as quoted by J. D. van der Vyver)

"An inquisitive and meticulous Press is... detested and feared by those persons in authority who have excessive powers at their disposal and who are consequently most likely to indulge in the type of activity that loses track of the popular demands of the people."
 (J. D. van der Vyver)

"Disregard of the law by the government is perhaps as much the result of a sense of unlimited power as any of the other vices."
 (J. D. van der Vyver)