

Jobs before profits

- The boss says: 'Retrenchments are good. If you take away five workers, the other three do better. Production is better now because workers are more worried about their jobs.'
- The union organiser says: 'The bosses are weeding out people and trying to push workers to do double jobs. The bosses are also trying to get rid of union members — they want to break the strength of the workers on the factory floor.'
- The workers say: 'We want work! We want jobs!'

What do you think?

TAG helps unions with training and ideas on productivity, new machines and retrenchments

TAG